Dear Friends and Colleagues:

The 2009-2010 fiscal year was a significant challenge for KCBF and the community response to this challenge was nothing short of breathtakingly wonderful!

KCBF began the year with grave concerns about our ability to achieve a markedly reduced budget in a time of seemingly unlimited constraints. However, thanks to a Board that saw the budget as a challenge to be overcome rather than a task too daunting to undertake and to a community of lawyers and law firm service providers who understood that even as their incomes were reduced others in our community were jobless and without resources to meet their legal needs, we not only achieved our budget fundraising goals, we significantly exceeded them.

There are many heroes in this story: the Campaign for Equal Justice — the annual collaborative effort of the LAW Fund Board and the KCBF Board to raise funds from law firms to support statewide pro bono civil legal services — which had its second best year ever; the best-ever success of KCBF’s annual Breakfast With Champions; Senator Tom Daschle who gave the keynote address at the Breakfast and who generously gave up his speaking fee in support of our mission; the Gates Foundation and the Washington State Bar Association who made substantial grants to the Legal Foundation of Washington in support of pro bono civil legal services throughout the state; the Seattle Foundation which made a substantial grant to KCBF through its Building Resilience Fund; and each and every lawyer, law firm, and law firm service provider who contributed of their time and money.

The King County Bar Association will celebrate its 125th birthday next year and throughout its history it has focused upon the betterment of the community in which its professional members live and work and the promotion of mutual respect among its citizenry. In reflecting upon the 2009-2010 year, I have come to understand that not only were we privileged to have been part of an incredibly selfless community effort in a year of extraordinary difficulty and uncertainty, but that each of us — each board member, each contributor, each sponsor and each grantor — has proven to be but one more instance of a steady stream of professionals since 1886 who, because of pride in their profession and in its values, have made it a tradition to provide pro bono legal services to those in need and to promote diversity and mutual understanding within our profession and our community.

There is great comfort in knowing that the good fight has gone on for so long and that it will continue well into the future. My heartfelt thanks to each of you for sharing in this effort and for joining all of those men and women, known and unknown, who have preceded us.

Stephen C. Ellis

Mission

The King County Bar Foundation is dedicated to ensuring access to the legal system and encouraging diversity in the legal profession.
Community Legal Services Programs

Housing Justice Project (HJP)

HJP is a court-based, homelessness-prevention program that assists low-income King County residents facing loss of housing due to eviction at the King County Courthouse in Seattle and the Regional Justice Center in Kent. HJP volunteer attorneys and legal assistants meet clients at the courthouse on the day of their eviction hearings and provide advice and consultation, legal rights education, negotiations with landlords, or full representation at the show cause eviction hearing. If a case continues beyond the hearing, HJP volunteers have the option of keeping the case or sending it to VLS for referral to a volunteer on the housing panel. HJP also advises tenants in other landlord-tenant matters. Because of a significant increase in the number of clients seeking assistance, HJP opened two, afternoon walk-in clinics to provide advice to clients who do not have same-day hearings.

Neighborhood Legal Clinics (NLC)

The NLC program offers free, half-hour, limited legal advice consultations and referrals to King County residents and those Washington State residents with legal actions filed in King County who might otherwise have no access to the legal system. The program strives to make the clinics accessible regardless of a person’s disability or lack of fluency in spoken English. The NLCs serve over 8,000 annually, regardless of income, in 31 clinics countywide.

Legal Services for the Homeless (LSH)

LSH works with firms and individual attorneys to provide free legal clinics at six of the homeless shelters and/or transitional housing centers in Seattle. Volunteer attorneys at the clinics provide legal advice, referrals, and direct representation on a variety of legal issues. If the law firm cannot take on representation of a client due to conflicts, that client’s case is placed with CLS’s volunteer attorney panel.

Newcomers Resource Project (Newcomers)

Newcomers provides direct representation and legal resources to immigrants and refugees. Its largest panel collaborates with CASA Latina serving unpaid and underpaid workers by referring those with wage claim issues to a panel of volunteer attorneys who provide direct representation.

Volunteer Attorneys for Persons With HIV/AIDS (VAPWA)

VAPWA represents people living with HIV/AIDS or those who have legal concerns related to HIV/AIDS. VAPWA handles cases in a variety of civil legal areas, including bankruptcy & debt, consumer issues, employment issues, estate planning, family law (including domestic partnerships), housing, individual rights, Social Security issues, tort defense, and vacating criminal records.

Volunteer Legal Services (VLS)

VLS provides direct representation of low-income clients by volunteer attorneys regarding a variety of civil legal issues. Common issues include bankruptcy, debt defense, landlord-tenant, vacation of criminal records, guardianships, and wills. VLS screens clients for financial eligibility, resolvable legal issues, and program priorities. VLS volunteers include attorneys from every area of practice.

Family Law Programs

Self Help Plus (SHP)

SHP assists low- to moderate-income King County residents who will represent themselves in uncontested divorces and establishment of parenting plans. SHP focuses on serving clients who have difficulty completing the family law paperwork, particularly clients who are homeless, disabled, or speak limited English, clients who are protecting children from another parent’s abuse or from domestic violence, and clients who are substance abuse survivors or who need restrictive parenting plans.

Family Law Mentor (Mentor)

Mentor facilitates pro bono representation for low-income clients in contested dissolution of marriage or parentage proceedings where the children's safety is at issue because of domestic violence, child abuse/neglect, criminal activity, or alcohol/drug abuse by the opposing party. The program assigns inexperienced or non-family law attorneys (mentees) to an experienced family law attorney (mentor) who provides initial training and continues to assist each mentee throughout the case.

Kinship Care Solutions (Kinship)

Kinship provides free representation to low-income relatives and other caregivers involved in nonparental custody through referrals to a volunteer panel of attorneys. Children who are subject to these proceedings are at-risk in their parents’ care due to abuse, neglect, abandonment, or the parent’s substance abuse, incarceration, or other issue. The project recruits, trains, and mentors the volunteer attorney through the legal process.

Domestic Violence Revision Squad (Revision Squad)

The DV Revision Squad provides representation to low-income survivors of domestic violence in Order for Protection proceedings. Volunteer attorneys represent victims in obtaining initial orders for protection and in filing motions for revision or reconsideration in cases in which a protection order has been wrongly denied or is insufficiently protective of the children. Since these motions involve court record review, briefing, and oral argument and must be filed and served within ten days of the original hearing, they cannot be referred through the usual volunteer referral process or handled by the NLCs.
A woman near death needed immediate legal assistance preparing her will. She had no assets except the few personal belongings that followed her from the hospital to the hospice, but she nevertheless needed a will to designate a guardian for her minor child after her death. A Volunteer Attorneys for Persons With HIV/AIDS program volunteer attorney, Natasha Shekdar Black of Davis Wright Tremaine, was able to go to the hospice facility, meet with the client, and draft the simple will in a very short time period. The client was able to rest knowing she had done everything that she could to best provide for her child after her death.

Community Legal Services programs (CLS) promote social justice by ensuring equal and non-discriminatory access to legal aid for all individuals by providing volunteer-based, client-focused legal services to low-income King County residents who would not otherwise receive legal assistance related to their needs.

One of our greatest strengths is mobilizing our many volunteers to provide access to justice for the most underserved and at-risk members of our community.
The Housing Justice Project (HJP) team in Kent helped a low-income family of four negotiate a favorable resolution to the eviction proceedings initiated by a bank/owner of a newly foreclosed property. Our clients had an unexpired lease, a clean rental history, and had never missed a rental payment. Nonetheless, when their landlord defaulted on his mortgage, a bank stepped in to take over the home and attempted to terminate our clients’ tenancy. A team of HJP volunteer attorneys quickly assessed the issues, determined that the bank’s notices were improper, and advised the bank’s counsel that the bank had not complied with new state and federal foreclosure-related eviction laws. Our clients indicated that they’d be willing to move, so long as additional time and compensation for their efforts were provided. The HJP-negotiated resolution provided the clients with a move-out date extended to the end of the month, a bank-funded moving truck with movers, reimbursement of past rental payments, and several thousand dollars for coverage of the clients’ first/last months’ rent and deposits on a new dwelling. The eviction proceeding was dismissed and the clients were elated with the results.
KCBF Minority Law Student Scholarships

KCBF is one of the largest providers of minority law student scholarships in Washington. In 2009-2010, KCBF distributed $125,000 to the University of Washington and Seattle University law schools for this purpose. Since the program began in 1970, $1.6 million has been granted and over 600 students have benefited from these scholarships, over half of whom still practice in Washington.

Building a Book of Business

Based on the premise that those minority attorneys who are successful within law firms are more likely to stay, this program helps minority associates in private practice improve their chances for success. In a closed-door seminar, successful minority lawyers instruct participants how to effectively market themselves and acquire new clients for their firms.

Future of the Law Institute

FLI is a year-long program for minority and economically disadvantaged high school students interested in learning more about a career in the law. Last year FLI provided 100 students substantive legal workshops, career counseling, a mock trial, a courthouse tour, and opportunities to meet with legal professionals. Students were matched up with a mentor for the school year and are eligible for scholarships when they continue on to higher education.

People of color remain markedly underrepresented in the legal profession — in Washington, minority attorneys make up less than 10% of licensed attorneys, while people of color make up 20% of the statewide population.

We work to ensure that members of the bench and the bar truly reflect and effectively serve the legal needs of our diverse community.

Breakfast With Champions

On March 10, 2010, nearly a thousand lawyers, judges, and friends of the legal community gathered at the Sheraton Seattle hotel for the King County Bar Foundation’s tenth annual fundraiser, the Breakfast With Champions. The Foundation raised $275,000 through guest contributions and sponsorships in support of its pro bono civil legal aid and diversity programs — a 22% increase over the previous year.

Former Majority Leader and U.S. Senator Thomas Daschle delivered the keynote address. His remarks focused on the current debate on healthcare reform and the cost, quality, and access issues that have politically polarized the discussion in our nation’s capital. The tightly-packed program also included the following speakers: Attorney General Rob McKenna, KCBF President Stephen Ellis, KCBF President James Andrus, La Rond Baker, 3L (University of Washington), Hon. Charles Burdell, Jr. (Ret.), KCBF Vice President Kathryn Battuello, and Peter Ehrlichman as the Master of Ceremonies.

The King County Bar Foundation would like to thank its sponsors, table captains, guests, trustees, staff and volunteers for making the 2010 Breakfast With Champions such a success. Special acknowledgement to the Breakfast strategists who volunteered their time to organize this event: Megan McCloskey (BWC Co-Chair), Megan Wells (BWC Co-Chair), James L. Austin Jr., Kathryn M. Battuello, Hon. Charles S. Burdell Jr. (Ret.), Daniel J. Dunne, Paul S. Ficca, Curt R. Hineline, M. Colleen Kinerk, Susan L. Mask, and Benson D. Wong.

Thank You 2010 Breakfast With Champions Sponsors!

A client initially came to the Domestic Violence Revision Squad as a referral to the Self Help Plus program for help in securing the return of her eight-year-old son who had been wrongfully withheld from her by the child’s father for two months. The father had been convicted three times of perpetrating acts of domestic violence against both our client and a past partner and had spent over six years in prison as a result.

Upon further examination, CLS staff determined that the client was in need of a domestic violence protection order that would direct law enforcement to aid our client in securing the release of their son to her custody. With the aid of a revision squad volunteer who agreed to represent her at the protection order hearing, the order was granted and the child returned.

Upon entry of the domestic violence protection order, the case was referred to the Family Law Mentor program for representation to establish a restrictive parenting plan and order of child support.
